DISCUSSION GUIDELINES

In order to support discussion and interaction, the event will have three parallel sessions per day. During each session, the researchers will NOT fully present their research, but they will only introduce it and then will be guided by the appointed discussant through a conversation. Discussion on each paper will last about 15-20 minutes and will include only a short introduction (1-2 minutes) by the author/s followed by conversation with other participants moderated by the discussant. NO presentation will take place during the discussion sessions: discussants will lead interactions between the authors and the audience. Great opportunities for feedback and feedforward!

Before the event (by November 30th), each author or group of authors will share a video presentation of 7-8 minutes (see file: video guidelines). These videos will be publicly available in the RGCS Youtube channel and will be useful for the discussant to prepare his/her comments and to the audience to decide which sessions to attend.
