Connection Everywhere Changes Everything: OneWeb's LEO satellite technology revolution

OneWeb is a truly global communications network powered by a constellation of 648 low Earth orbit (LEO) satellites. OneWeb enables high-speed, low latency connectivity everywhere around the world and OneWeb achieved it through innovation. But what are the materials of tomorrow? What technologies will help simplify the design, repeatability and operation of our satellite network? In this talk, we will explore the landscape of innovation enabling OneWeb to rethink satellite connectivity, drive change and grow new business opportunities.
