

Schematic view of a lossless device for metropolitan area telecom systems: the losses introduced by the signal splitting into the 8 output channels are fully compensated by the optical gain achieved in the active section of the device. The pump laser for the amplifier is a laser diode emitting at 980 nm